

Safety Device for Car Occupants, Federal Court of Justice (Bundesgerichtshof), 30 April 2009

Kluwer Patent Blog
April 30, 2009

Anja Lunze

Please refer to this post as: Anja Lunze, 'Safety Device for Car Occupants, Federal Court of Justice (Bundesgerichtshof), 30 April 2009', Kluwer Patent Blog, April 30 2009, <http://patentblog.kluweriplaw.com/2009/04/30/safety-device-for-car-occupants-federal-court-of-justice-bundesgerichtshof-30-april-2009/>

For an invention to be considered obvious it is usually necessary that there are additional incentives that go beyond the identification of the technical problem and lead the person skilled in the art to search the solution for this technical problem on the path of the invention.

A full summary of this case has been published on Kluwer IP Law.