

Portugal: The Court of Intellectual Property has exclusive jurisdiction to revoke patents, Supreme Court of Justice of Portugal, 1248/14.6YRLSB.S1, 14 December 2016

Kluwer Patent Blog
July 5, 2017

Alexandre L. Dias Pereira, Alexandre L. Dias Pereira \(University of Coimbra\)

Please refer to this post as: Alexandre L. Dias Pereira, Alexandre L. Dias Pereira, 'Portugal: The Court of Intellectual Property has exclusive jurisdiction to revoke patents, Supreme Court of Justice of Portugal, 1248/14.6YRLSB.S1, 14 December 2016', Kluwer Patent Blog, July 5 2017, <http://patentblog.kluweriplaw.com/2017/07/05/portugal-the-court-of-intellectual-property-has-exclusive-jurisdiction-to-revoke-patents-supreme-court-of-justice-of-portugal-124814-6yrlsb-s1-14-december-2016-2/>

The Court of Intellectual Property has exclusive jurisdiction to revoke patents. The mandatory arbitration court established by Law 62/2011 cannot declare the nullity of a pharmaceutical patent even if the issue is raised merely as a defence and with effects limited to the parties to the proceedings.
A full summary of this case has been published on Kluwer IP Law