In a patent infringement suit brought by Omega Patents against CalAmp Corp. alleging infringement of Omega's U.S. Patent Nos. 6,346,876 ('876 patent), 6,756,885 ('885 patent), 7,671,727 ('727 patent), and 8,032,278 ('278 patent), the federal district court in Orlando's judgment of no invalidity of the asserted claims was affirmed, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit has decided. However, multiple errors required reversal of findings of infringement with respect to each of the patents-in-suit, requiring remand for a new trial on these issues. In addition, the lower court's judgment was vacated and remanded for a new trial on its compensatory damages award, the jury's willfulness finding, and the court's enhanced damages and attorney fees award (Omega Patents, LLC v. CalAmp Corp., April 8, 2019, Dyk, T.).
