Medimmune v. Novartis & Anor, Court of Appeal Civil Division, 10 October 2012

Claire Purkiss (Bristows) · Friday, March 22nd, 2013 · Landmark European Patent Cases

The Court of Appeal held that while structural approaches for determining obviousness (with reference to the Pozzoli test), are useful, the importance of the statutory test cannot be undermined. The ultimate question that the Court must address is whether it was obvious to the skilled but unimaginative addressee to make a product or carry out a process falling within the claim.
