

---

Kluwer Patent Blog

Danish Maritime & Commercial Court awards historically high damages in Quetiapine

Anders Valentin (Bugge Valentin) · Friday, April 21st, 2017

On 17 June 2016 the Maritime and Commercial court declared AstraZeneca's patent DK/EP 0 907 364 invalid, rendering the preliminary injunctions granted against Teva and a number of other competitors void as a result. The issue of damages was set a side for separate adjudication and the Maritime and Commercial court delivered its judgement on this on 24 January 2017.

Teva essentially argued that it should be remunerated to reflect the hypothetical situation that would have been, had the injunction never been granted and that its loss should be calculated on that basis, i.e. that Teva would have had a material proportion of the market for quetiapine.

AstraZeneca argued that, when looking at the hypothetical turn of events if the preliminary injunction had not been granted many different factors would have to be taken into consideration including increased price competition as other generics would have entered the market sooner had there been no injunction.

Teva claimed to have incurred a loss of 150.688.920 kr. in turnover, and 126.275.236 kr. in profits for the period from the preliminary injunction was granted until 6 June 2016.

The court held that the calculations put forward by Teva concerned the Danish market and that the assumptions used by Teva were somewhat uncertain and thus estimated Teva's loss at a 100 mill. kr. being a historically high number.

Reported by Koen Miesenbeek

---

To make sure you do not miss out on regular updates from the Kluwer Patent Blog, please subscribe here.

Kluwer IP Law

The 2022 Future Ready Lawyer survey showed that 79% of lawyers think that the importance of legal technology will increase for next year. With Kluwer IP Law you can navigate the increasingly global practice of IP law with specialized, local and cross-border information and tools from every preferred location. Are you, as an IP professional, ready for the future?

Learn how Kluwer IP Law can support you.

---

79% of the lawyers think that the importance of legal technology will increase for next year.

Drive change with Kluwer IP Law.

The master resource for Intellectual Property rights and registration.

2022 SURVEY REPORT
The Wolters Kluwer Future Ready Lawyer
Leading change

This entry was posted on Friday, April 21st, 2017 at 1:21 pm and is filed under Denmark. You can follow any responses to this entry through the Comments \(RSS\) feed. Both comments and pings are currently closed.